

CLAIM

I (Larry Thomas Williams, Jr.) claim that my invention, an easily & repairable plastic pallet (also known as a skid) will be durable enough to transport goods from one destination to another worldwide. This pallet can be easily assembled and/or repaired, simply by snapping the pieces of plastic material together. When placing goods onto this pallet, a pallet jack or forklift (the two most common pieces of machinery) is used to lift, and move the pallet.